Zachery Talbot

With all the knowledge that we have about the act of burning fossil fuels and its direct correlation to climate change, this is ridiculous to share with the public that they are being conscious of the environment. Washington state residents demand better and cleaner sources of energy. No more sourcing fossil fuels for energy demands. Between burning fossil fuels to transportation the fossil fuels and then generators burning the fossil fuels, there is no justification that this project is eco conscious whatsoever. This is a blatant disregard for Washington's climate change goes. The permits for this project must be denied.