We spend a many spring, summer, and fall afternoons and evenings at Salado Creek. My children have scooped crawdads from the mud, spotted graceful egrets in the tall grasses, and fearlessly dunked their heads in the ice cold water. All that to say...it is a sacred day if it is spent at Salado Creek. It is the heart of Salado and I strongly back the comments made by Dirk Aaron. I wish I had a more educated and strongly (but respectfully) worded comment to make. But simply...we love the creek. We love the remarkable ecosystems it holds, we love the community it can create on a random Tuesday morning. We love all of the memories we have made there.

Please begin the process of evaluating expanded Edwards Aquifer protections in Bell County so that the Salado Creek remains clear and clean for generations ahead.
