

Katherine Anderson

Please stop this insane program of building a coal terminal on the Columbia River /Pacific Ocean. Both of these bodies of water are some of the largest waterways in the world and putting a plant that has the potential to seriously pollute these waters is a very bad choice. Not only is there a large potential to pollute the waters, the coal dust, fuels and chemicals that are used to bring it to this proposed terminal has the opportunity to further pollute and damage the waters, air and land around this area.

Instead of choosing to further the production and shipment of coal, which pollutes our earth EVERYWHERE it is used, please consider working harder to develop solar and wind power which provides ALL of us a cleaner environment and healthier lives. We HAVE the knowledge of what these pollutants do to our bodies and our environment. Be part of the SOLUTION instead of part of the PROBLEM!!