

JULIA BABCOCK

Consider the long-term consequences of allowing the Millenium Bulk Terminals Longview Coal Export Terminal because the short-term profit gains of corporations are not the future health of our region, our environment and the emissions that will come as a direct result of this project. We have the ability to choose our energy future NOW and coal should not be part of that equation. We need to show leadership as a community to stand against dirty energy sources; we can not afford another leak, we can not afford more emissions, we can not afford more development that causes pollution across state lines and international waters. More environmental studies need to be conducted about the underlying environmental justice issues about who this project harms and who it benefits!
