

Joanne Frank

Spraying poison directly into any natural body of water will endanger all creatures that live there. And what about the safety of people who may be in the water?