

Robin Perry

Spraying toxic chemicals to control burrowing shrimp is not the most effective solution for the long term.

Rather, like restoring the health of soil through managing microorganisms, so can ecosystems can be restored to achieve the end goals.