

Wally Bubelis

Oysters and other shellfish are a large and profitable industry, but the decline of bees and other pollinators, due in part to neonicotinoid pesticides, demands that we find other solutions.