

Pamela Gray

Imidacloprid should NEVER be introduced into the environment. We now know that has wide ranging effects beyond targeted species. If that's what the oyster industry needs to do to stay viable in Willapa Bay and Gray's Harbor they should give it up and relocate. Floating oyster beds work elsewhere. Those bays are just too shallow where they want to culture oysters.