

Paul Symington

Do not allow special interest for-profit Oyster producers to poison our public salt water with any pesticides whatsoever.

It's wrong to allow for-profit special-interests to use poison in our shared public waterways. Poison will likely have unintended consequences, which will cost the environment, fisheries and public dearly while the for-profit oyster growers smugly pocket the profits.

If the oyster industry cannot sustainably produce without poisoning our waterways, then they should go out of business.