

Susanne Griep

I think it is part of our responsibility, a necessary element in stewardship of our Washington state environment, that water temperatures be monitored and brought into compliance so that salmon are not endangered due to high water temperatures caused by dam operations.