

Peter Holcomb

The first step before rule making is an immediate moratorium on further building or platting. Otherwise the "developers" have no incentive to help make the process work.