

Seattle Public Utilities

We offer the following comments:

1. The definitions for "Action" and "Project" are confusing and appear to be used inconsistently. As defined, Actions are subset of a Project, yet the definition for Adaptive Management applies only to "actions". The document should be carefully reviewed to ensure that the terms are being used as intended.
2. Page 9 Project Description: If water-for-water is proposed is item 6 detailing "species, life stages and specific ecosystem structure, composition or function addressed" necessary, or is there a simpler approach that can be used. Otherwise, this could entail a significant amount of work.
