

Paul Franzmann

A variance -some kind of local exception- is wrong on too many counts:

-It looks political; make this equal across the board

-No one should need to worry over the quality of tap water

-'Slippery slope' ... once variations are made, another area is going to appeal for the same thing