

Analisa Lee

I adamantly oppose weakening the allowable PCB limits in the Spokane River. The adverse impacts of increasing allowable limits are far reaching and serious. PCBs are in human breast milk, in every one of our bodies, in our brains, in everything, and we simply have to move in the direction of limiting, eliminating, and cleaning up PCBs in our state. Please to not follow the direction of our Federal Government and weaken our hard-won environmental standards and protections. When I drive down I-5 and see numerous billboards for cancer treatment centers, I find it alarming how accustomed we're becoming to our current epidemic of ill health, most of which has an environmental component. PCBs are dangerous. Do not allow higher limits of them anywhere in Washington State. Thank you.