

Kris Dinnison

I am concerned the three week comment period isn't sufficient for the public to understand and examine this variance process. I would hope at least another 6 weeks would be added to the process. I want to make sure my rivers are protected. I also hope the process will include an event where the public can give comments on the process. In addition, larger corporations haven't historically proven themselves to be honest partners in protecting our waterways. I hope any variance applications companies with a history of having large environmental impact or being big polluters would be available for public review.