

Duwamish Valley Safe Streets

Duwamish Valley Safe Streets is a community group of Georgetown and South Park residents and business owners who believe that every neighborhood of Seattle should be a great place to walk, bike, live, work and play. Neighbors of Seattle deserve safe streets, social and economic opportunity, and clean air, soil and water regardless of race, income or background. The people who live, work and play in Georgetown and South Park are impacted more than any other Seattle neighbors by environmental pollution. We care about the recovery of our river and land from the impacts of industrial enterprise. We care about the health and wellbeing of the traditional land of the first people of Seattle, the Duwamish People past and present. Do not allow GEA to leave their chemicals in our soil and water.

As the ground water extraction process has proven to be more successful than past attempted clean-up methods, GEA should keep the extraction wells running until all of the harmful chemicals produced by their enterprise are removed! This clean up method should not be allowed to cease unless GEA can demonstrate with certainty that an alternative method is more effective.

Jesse Moore

Leader, Georgetown

Duwamish Valley Safe Streets
safe healthy streets for people
dvsafeststreets.org