

Rick Lee

The GE Aviation site at 220 S. Dawson is about 6 blocks from the edge of the Duwamish River.

Our Georgetown neighborhood residents and various community groups have made significant efforts to recover this river from past contamination and prevent future pollution.

Being part of a Superfund site and related clean-up efforts is significant: extensive time and resources are being spent to protect and improve the water quality of this river.

Please continue to use the most effective methods of containment and decontamination available.

Changing clean-up methods to something less-effective is counterproductive and a waste of resources.

The goal of the super-fund cleanup is to protect and recover, not to avoid and abandon.

Thank you,

Rick Lee, Resident

Georgetown Neighborhood, Seattle