

Kelly Garner

Priorities

I totally support these priorities. Transition to electric technologies should be a priority for all governments. Reducing harmful emissions for a more healthful environment and to reduce the production of greenhouse gases is a priority and goal that should be constantly top of mind.

Mitigation fund allocations

I generally support these allocations, but would like to see more funding for electric charging stations to facilitate the adoption of electric cars.

Disproportionately impacted communities

I support this priority as a logical way to allocate resources.