Allowances should be made for CO2 emissions reductions instead of only eliminated sources, allowing for solar thermal or solar electric offsets from projects, perhaps from other areas within the state.

For example, a multifamily apartment or hotel could sell carbon offsets if installing solar thermal to replace or offset a portion of their hot water heating with natural gas or propane etc.

The four markets being looked at seem to ignore some of the the largest greenhouse gas emitters-China, India and Russia-New Zealand is not even in the top 20
