

Meredith Pickerel

As a full-time resident of Vashon Island, I am greatly disturbed by even more pollutants released in our area. We can already smell their plastic burning. We live in a too sensitive marine environment to let them continue, and yet even expand, their operation.