

norah sullivan

There is NO scenario in which increasing toxic air pollution is acceptable! The most beautiful aspect of living in WA is the fresh air - although too frequently impaired by current paper mill pollution. If you must increase paper production, it is imperative to find a way to do it without releasing more toxins into the atmosphere. Although the current administration's goal is to dismantle environmental protections and standards, those of us who live here will not let you do it!