

Kevin Jones

Toxic emissions from Tacoma are a long-time issue for Vashon island. Emissions from the WestRock project include lead, formaldehyde, benzene and toluene. In addition, the project uses fracked gas, which is responsible for methane leaks that harm the climate. Ecology needs to provide a thorough and cumulative accounting of environment and climate damaging emissions, and assure they do not violate Port and City climate policies.