

Elizabeth Marlin

The state of WA should pursue option E and take the speediest course of action to rectify the contamination issue, regardless of expense. The companies responsible for this contamination were negligent in their duty to WA and its residents, and should be held accountable. Additionally, public meetings should be held to permit public comment on this issue in person.