

Anonymous Anonymous

Because Ecology's methodology behind the cleanup standards does not meet scientific rigor, there is a significant risk that the standards will be subject to litigation that will require use of tax payer dollars to defend. It is inappropriate of Ecology to "set up" the tax payers of Washington for expensive litigation when those dollars could be better utilized to facilitate site cleanup.