

Simon Marks

I am concerned about excess particulate coming off of the raw materials while using front end loaders to move the raw materials from storage bins to covered tracks. How much dust and excess particulate do you expect will be created, and will this affect the viability of the landscape around the smelter?