

Jonathan Gerber

As a fenceline resident of Texas, and an industrial electrical worker I believe we should not be pushing through so much development so fast! It's time to carefully consider the lasting consequences of the rash decisions made for short term economic gain on our fragile environment. Nothing you can do will eliminate the damage, and pollution except halting many projects now before they begins!