The people of this area, the eastern side of Washington state, have always had to accept the will of the people on the western side of the state. But, not this time. This is OUR backyard, and we're not going to let bureaucrats on the left determine what happens on the right. If the left side wants this smelter, then it should be on their side of the state. We don't live here because we are stupid, we live here because we are smart enough to love the peace and purity of this place.

So, just how powerful is the DOE and with all the detrimental evidence, can they shut this project down?
