

Emissol LLC

Neural Network (NN) is a complex method and requires substantial testing, development and validation in order to make it work for any given environment. We trust the applicant has gone thru its due process for this development and demonstration. It is imperative that sufficient evidence is provided, showing a certain NN algorithm has been developed and specifically shown to work for the said environment in the powerplant.