

WEST STAR CONSTRUCTION OF SPOKANE INC

It appears that the emissions allowances and carbon costs are directed at energy producers and high emitting industries which will then pass the costs on to their customers.

How can lower tier companies who are proactive about reducing their pollution output realize tangible benefits for doing so?

In essence, how can regular companies who modify their practices to significantly produce less carbon be incentivized to do so instead of being penalized by higher costs from the energy suppliers.

This is very important.