I want to see investment into nuclear energy production or carbon capture. Why are we investing so significantly into climate change when the likes of China far out weigh our own. China will surpass the US in a few years with no signs of stopping.

I currently don't see an effective mechanism to distribute the funds from the program other than on the whim of politicians to generate favor from constituents.

I personally don't like this program as I believe it will make us less competitive in the global economy.
