

Terri Lindeke

Our state has the most native tribes in the country. They have extensive land holdings throughout the state of Washington. You must include them in any discussions about the use of our lands in Washington State. This is their land.