

Kevin Coyne

This administrative tyranny is unacceptable. Regulatory capture was addressed by the founding fathers. It is very very bad, and something that We The People, for whom government works and not the other way around as Ronald Reagan said, need to put our foot down and just say NO.

The whole "climate change" theory discounts the science, included historically recorded scientific events such as the Maunder Minimum and the Dalton Minimum that prove that solar activity recedes in cycles, historically, and results in "little ice ages". This has nothing to do with my freedom to operate a gasoline powered engine in our Constitutional Republic, where I have the right to the pursuit of liberty and freedom.

This administrative decision, put forth by unelected bureaucrats is very very evil, and must be stopped at all costs. The survival of our nation depends on the defeat of this nonsense.