

Brian Allison

This is another foolish display of the ruling class of brainless emotionally charged arguments that are not based upon the scientific method being forced upon the masses without ever being put to a vote of the people.

Also there are no longer enough base loaded powerhouses to meet the increased demand on the grid that an all electric fleet will consume.