

Dale Weir

Not a well thought out idea!

Electric vehicles are expensive

We don't have enough electricity production to meet the extra demand

Batteries are expensive and a hazardous material to dispose of

In the event of a disaster (such as recent events in Florida),there is no way to charge an electric vehicle