

Charles Stiff

Newer fossil fuel vehicles are very clean burning. They last the consumer years with little maintenance. They are affordable and do not require a very expensive battery change that few can afford. Try pulling a fifth wheel trailer with an electric vehicle - newer diesel engines for trucks, heavy equipment, airplanes and locomotives are very efficient. Plus the supply of fossil fuel is vast without the expensive cost of manufacturing, handling, storage with little waste cost.