

Robert Davis

The State should be doing a thorough evaluation of both technical and economic factors that are involved in a major decision of this kind and their effect on our state and its citizens. Climate proponents offer cult-like statements about climate and weather that have little or no scientific basis. We need a thorough analysis not a political wish for a major high-impact program such as this.