

Don Enochs

California can not support the charging of vehicles today. Why would Washington follow that. It is totally undemocratic to allow our EPA to set law regarding elimination of fossil fuel.

More importantly medium and low income will not be able to afford this. All your tax breaks will not offset the cost of wiring your house for charging your new EV. This is the most regressive thing you can do to families living in this state. I hope they vote any legislator that supports this out of office. Totally ignorant.
