

Steve Verhey

I live in Eastern Washington, and I have been driving an electric car (a Chevy Bolt) for going on three years. I have significant, actual experience driving an electric car in an area where it is supposed to be difficult to get around in an EV. I think that, if anything, EV adoption should be accelerated to the extent possible in all sectors, and I support these rule changes.