

Marsha Iddings

As far as I can see this is not a well thought out idea. It is unaffordable for the general population, therefore it is discriminatory against those who need transportation and can't afford it. It restricts our rights to freedom of movement as well. I have not seen anyone address responsible disposal of spent batteries. It is not good for the environment when you take into account how the components for the batteries have to be pulled from the earth. As far as I can see this doesn't have anything to do with a clean environment but everything to do with controlling people.
