

Paul Koester

I am against the proposed rulings. There are several types of power plants for automobiles arriving in the next few years that will surpass what is available now. These include more efficient gasoline, hybrid, and hydrogen. Electric Vehicles will be more prevalent but we have to build more electric generation and transmission infrastructure first.