

Marty Cole

The Clean Vehicle Program Chapter 173-423 WAC is not only economically disastrous, but it is ecologically ridiculous. The fossil fuel used to create ideas and explore, in regards to even the simplest points: such as equipment production, transportation, operation is crazy; then, people have to travel, mine, process, distribute, incorporate, market materials and then utilize in consumable end=products only to battle the issues of how to eliminate the by products... leaving the earth scorched and strained... its the damnedest and dumbest R&D ever. The practical problems are only being swept under the rug, as failures and astronomical cost make for an even more confounded publicity stunt Elitist ideas are going to fail and hell will capture so many fools, who think they are gods.