

Richard Apley

To force people to do anything just to appease certain people is wrong and goes against freedom of choice! The politicians think EV is the way to go into the future only supports the destruction of the environment by destroying habitat just to get the materials to create batteries to run these vehicles. To do this only adds to climate change and does NOT help the environment in any way.