

Riley Simpson

These types of regulations have good intentions and should be considered as future goals but seem too ambitious. We shouldn't do something because California is doing it.