

Robert Wanpler

This is by far the most asinine thing living in Washington state. Most living families can't afford a new car let alone an EV with these skyrocketing prices and price gouging that the local dealerships are doing here in Washington state it shouldn't cost $100,000 for a new car but unfortunately local dealerships are taking advantage of residence and marking up these cars. I am not in support of this nor I vote for anyone that supports this.