

Craig Zora

One of the main takeaways from the Norwegian EV success is that it was neither difficult nor expensive. Mostly it was done by exempting EVs from taxes, access to public transport lanes, parking etc., and building charging stations. For other countries (including Washington State) it will be even easier.

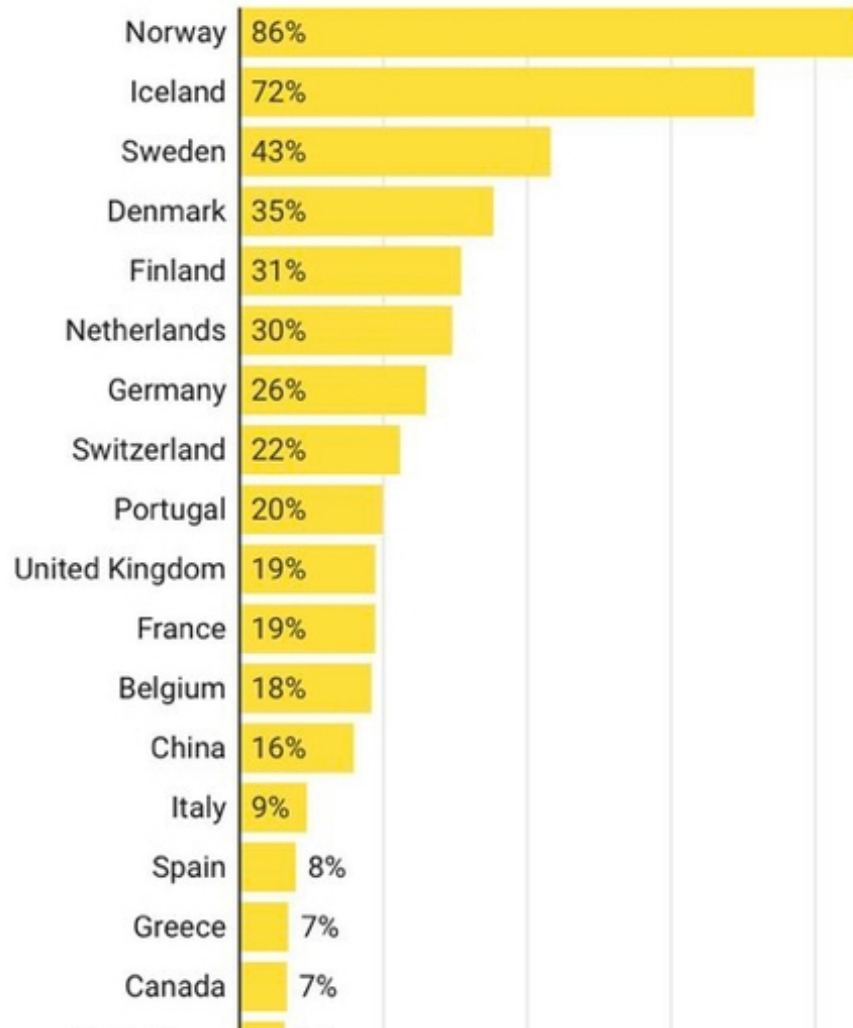

Justin Guay @Guay_JG · 1h

Nearly every car sold in Norway is now electric

The future is here it's just not evenly distributed

Electric vehicle sales as a percentage of overall car sales in 2021

in

