

Rene Lapierre

I can not afford an electric vehicle. I do not have the capability to charge an electric vehicle. I don't think our citizens want to be told what they can and can not buy when it comes to vehicles. And I don't think our electric system can support the power demand if even twenty five percent of the population were trying to charge an electric vehicle. I go camping for weeks at a time where there is no charging facility. I go places where the weather is cold and would not want to be stranded in an electric vehicle. Electric vehicles will not work for me. I don't want to be forced to buy one. I will not buy one. I will not support the use of them.
