

Mark Lampe

It's clear to myself and most other Washingtonians I have talked to that the regulations and policy changes are regressive and based on bogus politicized science and will lead to massive economic failure in this state. Hopefully you can re-think this as I know for certain that only a small minority is ever going to purchase an electric car or use the public transport bussing system.