

Melissa T

This is a horrible idea. The infrastructure already can't handle what ev are in the state. The materials to make the batteries for ev cars are not any better for the environment and they're extremely difficult to dispose of.