

Rick Porter

There should be no state government rules on this. The public should decide their choice of transportation based on all the factors they consider important when they make a transport buying decision. Government has usually been wrong and the public has usually been correct....no mandates on this issue.