

George Prudden

Production of electric cars is not reliable enough to have a reliable flow of products to ban the sale of petroleum-powered cars. For many, if not most families, the cost of electric cars is far beyond their means. Requiring only electric cars to be sold is not realistic.